Boat House*Fisherman House*Island House

Hiking and biking on the Island of Murter

More and more people choose the destination Murter in springtime to enjoy the mild climate and the lovely landscape around. Indeed you don't have to prepare anything for that. A bit of sun cream a towel, that you can use to dry your skin and to use also as a pillow and maybe an interesting book, are enough to have a recreational and relaxing day at the rim of the sea and to fill up the body batteries with the green energy of the nature.

You can start right from Fisherman House, Boat House and Island House by feet, short stop at one of the small supermarkets around to get food and drinks for the day and that way a nice, calm day at the adriatic sea is starting. Through the old town alleys, across the hills of the island and through the olive trees you will reach the shore in maximum fifteen minutes' walk. The azure blue water is waiting for you! No matter which direction you will choose, you will always find a path along the coast, that leads you under the pine trees from bay to bay. Huge stone plates, sanded by the sea in centuries and small natural pebble beaches, that you will find unoccupied especially in pre- and afterseason, invite you for a small rest. Relaxed you will open your book to read some pages, before the curiosity wins and pulls you forward to see what is hidden behind the next corner.

For those who like to get further the island offers a lot of hiking paths across and around the isle, often over the top of the hills passing small chapels, churches or monasteries and the panoramic views are the rewards for climbing up here.

More and more popular is it to cycle on Murter. On your own bike or on a rented one, which you are able to get at different places, you can ride from village to village, across the hills, which spend the view on the islands around Murter and the Kornati islands. Different round trips will show the island to you surely always with a cafe or a restaurant on the way, for a rest. Who likes it more comfortably is invited to rent one of the offered scooters and take a ride through the Mediterranean air.

The possibilities you have on Murter for sure you have also around Murter on the sea. But more to that in our next newsletter. Stay curious!
